

Health, Safety and Environmental Policy

Our HSE preventive measures emerged from decades of experience gained over worldwide projects in a particularly challenging and sensitive marine environment.

Responsibility in terms of safety and conservation of our environment lies with each of us : the whole workforce — including external personnel temporarily hired by LOUIS DREYFUS TRAVOCEAN — is obliged to fully comply with our safety and environmental provisions, enforce these rules within their team where appropriate and permanently adopt a responsible attitude with regards to others and the natural habitat in which we operate.

In respect of the Health, Safety and Environment, it is my duty to mobilize the necessary means to clear the hazards, reduce the risks, seize the opportunities and meet all applicable regulatory requirements.

Therefore, I would like to emphasise the following commitments :

- Ensure a healthy and safe working environment for the safety of people and proper care of the equipment, which implies a systematic prior risk assessment analysis for each of our different sites and projects
- Prevent risks and accidental pollutions by designing durable and reliable engines
- Familiarize and train personnel regarding Health and Safety rules and Environmental provisions
- Define and regularly review our objectives and actions that need to be taken to continuously improve our HSE performances
- Ensure consultation and participation of workers, particularly workers' representatives, to set and execute HSE provisions.

I am personally committed to enforce all the actions undertaken to comply with our HSE policy.
